

Administrators Claim Control of Student Fees

by Dick Ulmer

Two UNO officials interviewed last week believe that a policy statement issued by the Board of Regents over the summer gives the administration ultimate control of so-called "student fees."

Vice-Chancellors Ronald Beer and Harold Keefover both referred to the position paper which was passed at the July 13 Regents meeting.

The "University of Nebraska Policy on Student Fees" is divided into four sections. Part one changes the term "student fee" to "University Program and Facilities Fee" (UPFF). The second section divides that fee into two parts: Fund A which is "that portion of UPFF designated for student activities" and Fund B, "that portion of the UPFF designated to pay for debt services, staff salaries, maintenance of facilities and related expenses."

Part three commands, "An Allocations Board comprised of students, faculty and staff shall be established to recommend disbursements of Fund A. This recommendation shall be approved by the chancellor on each campus and submitted to the President of the University and the Board of Regents for review and adoption."

Keefover, who is head of UNO business and finance, says the statement means that "it's only by administrative discretion that money has been made available to student government."

Taking the new policy into consideration, Keefover doesn't believe the Student Senate had the legal right to freeze portions of its budget earlier this month. He allowed the freeze to take place only "because it wasn't hurting anything."

Keefover also said, "There may be some changes as a result of the Regents' new policy regarding the administration of general fees (UPFF)." When asked what those changes might be, Keefover referred the question to Vice-Chancellor for Educational and Student Services Ronald Beer.

Beer acknowledged that he was aware of the new policy and agreed that some changes should be made. He said, "This will be discussed with the Student Senate, the Chancellor and the vice-chancellors."

He wants the discussions to begin "within the next month or two" and says he'll enter them with "no preconceived ideas."

Senate Wants Faculty To Buy Activity Cards

Faculty will pay to attend student government sponsored events according to a resolution passed in the Student Senate Thursday evening.

By a thin margin of 9-8 (and one abstention) the Senate voted to except a proposal brought forth by its Rules Committee.

The proposal states that faculty and staff must purchase a five dollar activity card to enter student-sponsored events for the same price a student would pay. If they do not wish to purchase the cards, faculty and staff must pay public prices.

Arts and Sciences representative Bobbi Micka resisted the measure pointing out that UNO's pay scale is so low some fringe benefits must be offered to attract quality faculty.

Kris Grady, student body vice-president, also spoke in opposition to the activity card. She believes the cards "might alienate faculty."

Shortly after passing the faculty fee resolution, the Senate took a ten-minute recess. Most of the senators never returned.

Applications are now open for vacant positions on the Student Programming Organization (SPO) Board.

The deadline for submitting applications is Friday, Sept. 21. Applications forms can be picked in Room 250 of the Student Center.

Greek

TKE's To Rejoin IFC Says Greek

Tau Kappa Epsilon, UNO's maverick fraternity, may rejoin the Interfraternity Council (IFC) in the near future.

Now Negotiating

TKE president Ron Greek is currently negotiating with IFC on several points of contention. He says, "We think we can do a lot of good for the Greek system."

The split between IFC and the TKE's occurred over two years ago in the spring of 1971. Greek says it took place because TKE instituted open rush and other progressive measures so that it could rebuild. IFC didn't approve.

Attitudes Changed

Greek believes that IFC has since changed its attitude, and he credits its current president Greg Blodig for "coming-up with a positive statement."

One aspect about TKE's return to the fold that has Greek a bit upset, is the subtle pressure applied by UNO's administration. A listing of incoming freshmen who indicated interest in joining fraternities on their ACT tests was compiled by the administration. Every fraternity on campus received a copy of the list except TKE.

Faulty Impression

Up until a meeting a couple weeks ago with Vice-Chancellor Ronald Beer, Greek says he "was under the impres-

Student Government Retreat Short and Costly for 13

Apparently only 13 student government officials, including only six senators, attended the student government retreat held this past weekend at a cost of $400.

Funds for the retreat held at Camp Esther K. Newman south of Louisville were appropriated by the Senate at its Aug. 31 meeting and a three day affair running from 5 p.m. Friday to after 1:00 p.m. Sunday was planned. However, the retreat ended Saturday after many items on the program agenda were cancelled due to the poor turnout.

Two Gateway reporters arrived at the camp at 11 a.m. Saturday, three hours after the planned start of the working day, and found eight persons seriously discussing student government problems.

They were: Senators Colleen Gregory, Dan Haley, Debbie Magee, Bobbi Micka, Elaine Pickinpaugh, Jim Sherrets, Student Body President Dave Parker and Public Relations Coordinator Steve Seline.

Gregory said the eight were the only ones to spend the entire time at the retreat, but three other student government officers had attended the night before — Student Body Vice-president Kris Grady, and Rusty Schwartze and Dave Williams, members of the Council on Student Affairs.

At approximately 11:30 Saturday morning Grady returned to the camp accompanied by the Coordinator of the Executive Cabinet, Greg Blodig. Seline said that Lang Anderson, chairman of the Legislative Liaison Committee, arrived later Saturday to bring the number of participants to 13.

Seline said the $400 cost was a settlement negotiated with the camp director after the disappointing weekend. The original agreement, he said, called for a $17.50 per person cost with a minimum of 35 people guaranteed to attend. As it turned out, the cost was about $30.75 per person.

At one time during the Student Senate meeting last Thursday the idea was raised of cancelling the retreat. Seline said, however, that after consultation with Ombudsman Frank Forbes it was decided that the camp could legally hold the student government to its verbal agreement and letter of confirmation and "stick us for the whole amount" of over $600.

However, Esther K. Newman Camp Director Bob Litvak told the Gateway that the weekend could have been cancelled by the forfeiting of a $250 deposit.

Seline later said it was discovered Friday that the camp would only demand the deposit but that some of the senators decided in executive session that it would be better to try and salvage some good from the weekend instead of just handing over the $250.

The people who attended the retreat said they didn't think the weekend was a total loss.

"There were advantages to having a smaller group," Seline said, "we really got a lot accomplished."

Gregory, the speaker for the Student Senate, said she thought more of the senators were going to attend.

"However, I'm not a bit disappointed in the people who did show up," she said. "They showed a sincere enthusiasm and showed it was worth our time to come out here."

According to those who were at the camp Friday night, the high point of the retreat was the visit of Chancellor Ronald Roskens and Vice-chancellor Ronald Beer.

Grady said that after the informal talks with the two administrators she has a better understanding of the University's problems.

Parker, who was ready to forfeit the retreat money Thursday because of the disinterest shown by the Senate, said he was disappointed that more people had not attended.

Student Government Slots

Applications are currently being taken for appointment to seats open on the Student Senate due to resignations.

Applications are also being taken from those interested in running for the 15 Senate seats that will be up for grabs in next month's general election.

The ten seats now vacant will be filled by Senate appointment. However, these appointments will only be temporary as the seats will be up for election in October along with five others.

The number of seats currently open, and those to be elected in October are:

	Currently Open	Up for Election
College of Continuing Studies...	3	4
Arts and Sciences College	1	1
Graduate College	1	1
Engineering College	2	2
Business Administration College	1	1
College of Public Affairs and Community Service	-	2
University Division	-	2

There are also openings for students to serve on the following student government standing committees: Budget Committee, Rules Committee and Special Investigation Committee.

Students interested in any of these positions should apply immediately at the student government office, Room 250 of the Student Center.

High School Council?

UNO student government stands at a crossroads.

The current representatives must decide soon on which of two paths they wish to embark, for their decision will undoubtedly affect student governments here for years to come.

The choices are clear, either student government can become a rubber stamp for the administration — an advisory board that will speak loudly but carry a little stick — or it can become a true decision-making body which will have a real voice in determining how this University treats its students.

The battle lines are already drawn — the issue is student fees. The University of Nebraska Board of Regents has adopted a policy statement which reveals in black and white what many have known for quite some time; the Regents don't think student government should have control over the funds paid into it by the student body.

The Regents must be proved wrong if UNO student government isn't to be reduced to the status of a high school student council.

How can this be done? To begin with, the Student Senate shouldn't expect much help from student government's executive branch, President Parker has already made clear his position on student rights.

The Senate's attack should be two-fold. First, it must get the backing of the people. The administration can laugh in the faces of senators elected by only 16 per cent of the student body. This can be done by holding a hard-fought, interesting campaign this fall. Fifteen senate seats are to be filled in October, and if those seats are captured by aggressive student leaders supported by a majority of their constituents, a giant step will have been taken.

Once the support of the students has been gained, the Senate can proceed to move on. It must confront the administration with this electoral mandate and demand a transfer of student fees to an account regulated by the student body treasurer. If the administration refuses to comply, the individuals comprising it should be sued until a proper settlement is reached.

Then and only then, will student government become a force to be reckoned with on this campus.

Sorry About Seating

To Faculty, Staff and Students,

We have received several inquiries with respect to seating arrangements for UNO football games at Rosenblatt Stadium. We recognize that the situation is not ideal and ask you to bear with us until we move into our own facility.

Our arrangements take into account several factors. These include policy governing use of Rosenblatt Stadium as established by the City of Omaha, our concern that students and faculty have reserved seating between the 35 yard lines and as near the field as possible, and the accommodation of persons who have purchased reserved seats and season tickets.

We have succeeded in moving the right field bleachers to a position immediately behind our team which we believe offers the finest vantage point from which to watch the game. While the seats on the opposite side of the field appear to look more inviting they are, in fact, farther from the field of play. The bleacher seating reserved for faculty and students has back rests and should be equally comfortable.

'Free' Parking Not Free

Dear Editor,

The UNO Student Senate, as reported in last week's Gateway, has unanimously passed a resolution recommending termination of "free" parking for faculty and staff. If its intent was to eliminate a situation in which faculty and students are given unequal treatment, the Senate was inconsistent in that it didn't go nearly far enough.

For years, free parking has been only one among several "fringe benefits" enjoyed by the UNO faculty and staff. Others have involved university contributions to such things as the retirement program, the medical insurance plan, social security, and even employee scholarships. So far as I know, the general UNO student body has been a direct fiscal beneficiary of none of these, rendering their continuation an exercise in blatant discrimination.

Worse yet, the instructor of a class like Biology 102 is likely to use more classroom space for a greater amount of time during a given week than does any one of the Biology 102 students. But discriminatory university policy dictates that students must pay for the privilege while the favored professor gets by scot-free. If complete equality of treatment for faculty, staff, and students is a justifiable end, such gross inequities should be eliminated as soon as possible. The case stated above seems ridiculous only because it carries to a logical conclusion a new economic principle espoused in effect by the Student Senate, namely that distinctions between employees and clients be eliminated. Whether proper or improper, the nearly universal view of university economy has faculty and staff as employees, and students as clients. Regardless of the justice or injustice of it all, clients have always been forced to pay and employees have gotten paid.

To most, the picture of an angry clientel demanding of a restaurant's management that free employee meals be immediately terminated because free meals are denied to the customers is a ludicrous one. As with any other "fringe benefit" the free meals do not constitute a free ride. They are a legitimate part of the employees' salaries, and are given not as a special privilege, but in partial payment for work performed.

At UNO, both faculty and staff have for years correctly viewed their so-called "free" parking as a non-monetary part of the salary paid for work done, and would most certainly consider the termination thereof as an arbitrary and unjustified cut in already inadequate wages.

McCormick Apologizes

Dear Chancellor:

It was with regret that I read the Gateway on September 7th and noticed the manner in which my statements were quoted with reference to your office. While I do not deny saying the words as printed, the manner in which it was presented indicated that I was attempting to attack you personally and was making implications that were certainly not intended.

For any misunderstanding that might have arisen because of the words used, I feel compelled to tender this apology. In so doing, I in no way imply that I agree with what has been represented to be your or the administration's views with regard to student fees and the student Senate. I intend to act in every legitimate way to preserve the power of the Senate as the sole recommending body (or person) with reference to student fees. While such recommendation comes through your office it is my hope that it is merely formal and that it goes directly to the Board of Regents. Only in that way can a viable student government exist.

The use of the words in the debate was ill advised, I shall attempt to guard my language in the future more carefully. I hope also that the Administration will be very alert to the aspirations of responsible student leaders and a responsible student government.

Sincerely yours,
Tom McCormick
Student Senator

Editor's note: The Gateway received a copy of the above letter which was sent to Chancellor Ronald Roskens.

McCormick did not make his statements in an informal atmosphere, but while he had the floor at the Aug. 31 Student Senate meeting during a debate over the control of student fees. The Gateway stands on its story.

Senate Not Mutually Exclusive

Dear Student Body,

There have been many reactions and a variety of opinions on the Student Senate's retreat. As the elected Speaker of the Student Senate, I appreciate this opportunity to share with you my experiences and opinion of the Senate's retreat held last week-end.

The attendance was not as expected. However, those present were determined to accomplish the work that lay before them. We all had a sincere purpose in mind and set out to achieve it. Wanting to express an effective student voice to the administration, faculty, and staff and the other performing multiple services for the students, we worked to set definite goals for the Student Government and the means to achieve them. I feel the opportunity to informally "Rap" with Chancellor Roskens and Vice-chancellor Beer, will promote greater understanding and effectiveness in the future between the administration and the students. We are not mutually exclusive and we certainly depend upon one another.

I personally participated in the retreat, hoping to improve student government working together internally and externally reaching out to the students. At the end of the retreat I felt good, because I experienced many persons working to improve our educational community. We know there is much need for improvement and are willing to work.

True, we were small in number, but we are sincere and enthusiastic to serve you.

Sincerely,
Colleen Gregory
Senate Speaker

Teacher Evaluations Being Reconstructed

A new teacher evaluation form is now being prepared by a special joint committee at UNO according to the former Dean of Academic Affairs, William Gaines.

Gaines said he and Chancellor Ronald Roskens, along with the Council of Deans, felt that the numerous evaluation forms previously used only confused matters.

Joint Committee

As a result, a committee made up of persons appointed by the presidents of the Faculty and Student Senates was formed to prepare a new evaluation.

Gaines outlined the three-fold purpose of the new form:

1. to assist the teacher,
2. to help students obtain information on courses and the range of teaching skills available in those courses,
3. to give the administration, the deans and the department chairmen a form with "validity across the board" with respect to the evaluation of teachers.

Summer Form Basis

Gaines said last summer a test form was used which provided the basis in making up the new form.

"Through this testing we moved toward a form more acceptable to our three-fold purpose," he said.

Professor Richard L. Wikoff of the Psychology Dept. is acting as an advisor, working through the computer center, in regards to the factoring and correlative work of the forms, Gaines said.

Shorter Than Previous

The new form will have between 25 and 30 questions, most of which will be taken from last year's form of 53 questions which was considered too long by most faculty members, Gaines said.

The students on the committee are selecting ten questions out of the original 53 according to one of the members, Steve Seline. Some new ones will also be submitted.

Seline said he wasn't exactly satisfied with the way the new form was going, but estimated, "It will come out okay in the end."

Possibly Extra Space

Gaines said the committee is also considering leaving space on the forms so faculty members can add questions of their own which they think will be useful to them.

Teacher evaluations were first used on campus in May, 1971, Gaines said, and he was chairman of the committee that compiled that form. That evaluation has been updated once or twice since then, he said.

Gaines said he hopes the new form will be ready by the end of this semester, otherwise the old evaluation will be used.

Senate Draws Replies

Recent Student Senate actions concerning fees for faculty and staff have drawn replies from the president of the Faculty Senate and the chairman of the Staff Advisory Council.

The Student Senate in three meetings this fall has passed resolutions recommending that faculty and staff members at UNO pay for parking privileges and pay some form of admission to University activities sponsored by so-called student fees.

Dr. Wayne Wilson, president of the Faculty Senate, said that when the Municipal University of Omaha merged with the University of Nebraska it was agreed that the faculty would retain all fringe benefits. This, he said, included free parking.

Emphasizing that he was speaking personally and not for the Faculty Senate, Wilson said, "I will have to vehemently disagree with any suggestion that faculty should pay for their parking."

Wilson said that in the future if a new parking facility is built, such as a high rise structure, he is aware that faculty may then have to pay for their parking to finance the facility, but not until then.

Wilson said if the administration rules favorably towards the Student Senate's recommendation, the Faculty Senate will probably take some counter action.

But he said he doubted if the Chancellor will okay the recommendation and send it on to the Board of Regents.

"The students can only recommend to the Chancellor and that's as far as things can go unless he decides differently," Wilson said, "and I personally don't think that this will go any farther."

Concerning the issue of faculty paying admission to activities funded by the "student fees,"

Wilson said he had mixed reactions.

"Personally," he said, "I would not be adverse to paying a reasonable fee to attend a concert or some other form of entertainment."

But the business administration professor said he would be against paying for something of an educational nature, such as guest speakers.

"These things need the support of faculty members," he said, "and they should not be charged to see them."

"And the faculty should be admitted free," he continued, "to any activity which is funded by the University, even though some of the funds may come from so-called student fees."

Wilson said he was appreciative of student rights, but didn't think the faculty should be put in the same category as the public when it comes to University activities.

"I am distressed that students would even equate the faculty with the general public," he said. "I'm not just a hack coming out here; I've dedicated my life to this institution."

Rick David, chairman of the staff advisory council, said that staff morale at UNO is already low and making staff pay for parking and admission to events would only worsen the matter.

David, speaking to the Student Senate Thursday asked, "At this time when we have plenty of room at most events, why cause irritation?"

He later indicated that in his opinion the Student Senate's action was only a recommendation to the administration.

David, the student activities coordinator at UNO, said he is not sure what action the Staff Advisory Council would take if the administration accepted the recommendation of the Senate. But he said he would like to get the staff together with faculty and students so "we can have a better understanding."

Could you make better contacts with contacts?

There are times when glasses can get in the way of a meaningful interpersonal relationship. So maybe your glasses shouldn't be glasses at all. Contact lenses might suit you better.

STEREO

Sorry we missed you last week, things got a little hectic around here and we just didn't make it.

Stereo and Quad were there last week so here goes.

Question: If Hi-Fi equipment is able to reproduce sound that we can't here what good is it? We're only supposed to hear from about 30 Hertz (cps) to 17,000 Hertz (cps), so why the fancy extremes that we can't even hear?

Answer: (in parts) Part 1 — music is made of tones and harmonies that go far below and far above what you can hear and different instruments derive their identity from their own harmonies and sounds made by them other than their base frequencies. Triangles and cymbals, tambourine, chimes and hi-bells (celeste) all sound pretty much the same on a poor stereo but when proper bandwidth is provided by good equipment each seems to come alive on its own and is distinctly different to the ear (try it!). Part 2 — your ears are not the only sound sensors you have. The bone structure near the ear is sensitive to high and ultra high frequencies and as sound is air moving, if you have ever experienced true bass response, at volume, there is something stunning your entire body that although you may hear some of it, you surely sense most of it.

Some Common Terms

Woofer — the larger speaker in a speaker enclosure and usually music is electrically divided so that only the low tones are sent to that speaker as that is what they reproduce best.

CD-4 — the generally accepted term to indicate discrete 4 channel records and to distinguish them from 4 channel matrix which is a totally different approach to 4 channel sound on a disc.

This week's tip

The new Shibata tip for 4 channel cartridges has been tested on regular stereo records and yields up to 25% better response than a conventional conical or elliptical stylus. It wouldn't be a bad idea to pick up one and improve your stereo now and have the jump on yourself for when you convert to four channel later.

'Hound Dog' Real Blues

by Kim Monari

Now, it just isn't too often that a concert can have me so excited that I decide to track the artist's LP down to listen to that very same night. And since there are no all night record shops in Omaha (like there are in San Francisco), I was compelled to roust a disgruntled buddy out of bed on a Sunday night, (morning?) at the ridiculous hour of 1:30 AM.

Hound Dog Taylor and the Houserockers———Heard of 'em? Yes? Then you Know where I'm at! No? Honey, please accept my deepest sympathies.

If you're not a blues fan (like you're into greys or greens) you can quit reading this column now. Really. Because Hound Dog Taylor is the blues.

Farquhar's has an exciting new idea in musical entertainment. They've decided to contract some decent folks for the benefit of their faithful Omaha patrons. Thursday, September 13th through Sunday September 16th took care of four days, as I see it. So, they only have 361 to fill.

Hound Dog Taylor is an excellent boogie and slide guitarist whose fairy godmother was sitting on her fanny until Hound Dog had reached the formidable age of 46. (He's really young in mind and spirit.)

Born in 1915, he's been a fulltime bluesman since 1957 and has worked the legendary King Biscuit Flour program on KFFA in West Helena, Arkansas. He's played virtually every blues club in Chicago since he moved there in 1942. His tunes have been borrowed by many other blues artists, and a version of one of his instrumentals was recorded by Freddy King. "Hideaway" helped Freddy on the road to stardom, but Hound Dog never received composer's credit.

Probably one of the most striking differences between Hound Dog and other musicians, is that he does not consider himself a star. He's just playing his music. "We're not no big shots", he said during his Sunday night gig.

Working against a less than adequate sound system at Farquhar's, Hound Dog came through with one hell of a show. Not only was there standing room only, but those that were standing, were having a fantastic time of it. People danced on the stage at will, around and about the musicians. Certain other "stars" would certainly never allow this type of unacceptable behavior. Not so with Hound Dog. He enjoyed himself as much as the dancing strangers.

It's really hard to believe what a beautiful, unassuming man Hound Dog Taylor is, unless one sees him in person. His modest charisma (I think I've coined a new term) makes as big an impact as his superior blues style. "If you believe in me, I'll believe in you," seems to be a personal philosophy that really comes through in his performance. Performance even sounds too formal a word to use in reference to Hound Dog. He's just sitting down and jamming with a few hundred friends.

Unhappily enough, Hound Dog Taylor won't be back in Omaha until long after Christmas lights have dimmed. But do me a favor will you? (You'll really be doing yourself one, if you don't feel like doing me one). Get his album "Hound Dog Taylor and the Houserockers" which is out on the obscure Alligator label. At least it will give you something to do until January.

Entertainment

'Amen' Seeks Sophisticated Audience

Amen, Amen, Etc., the revue currently onstage at Westroads Dinner Theatre, is an entertaining blend of music and comedy.

If you enjoy it half as much as I did, you'll agree that it's worth the price of admission.

"The Dazzlers," the seven young performers who have come with the show from Pittsburgh by way of Chicago, are talented and energetic.

Career Tribute

In the opening production number, the narrator announces: "We are here to pay tribute to one of the greatest show business careers of all time — the show biz career of God."

But the revue is neither sacrilegious nor biting satire. Unless you're Victorian enough to have been shocked by Jack Paar's "w.c." joke, you won't be offended by Amen, Amen, Etc.

Sophisticated Material

The material is intended for a sophisticated dinner theatre audience, though, so don't go expecting to see something appropriate to a tent revival meeting.

"The show biz career of God" is celebrated through a succession of musical production numbers based on popular, familiar songs.

Some are religious songs in themselves, and are played straight. Some are decidedly secular songs which are given a quasi-religious twist, for comic effect.

"Teen Angel" Good

Probably the best example of the latter is the "Teen Angel" number, in which multi-talented Joe Mosier slicks back his hair like a greaser and parodies the 50s-style rock singing, complete with back-up group overdoing the "ooh-wa-wa" sound effects.

The high point of this number comes when blonde Kathy Rubbo floats less than angelically down from heaven and, with a cigarette dangling from her lips, nostalgically yearns for the good old days of hot-rodding back and forth between the corner malt shop and the drive-in theater. The audience was beside itself with laughter throughout this number.

Girls Swing as Nuns

In another comic moment, the four girls of the company, portraying swinging nuns, sing "Sisters" (from White Christmas), with new lyrics about married priests and changing fashions in nuns' habits.

There are some beautiful performances of pop religious songs. Jodi Mitchel, a nice Jewish girl with a sexy singing voice and an excellent stage personality, really sells "I Don't Know Why I Love Him" (from Jesus Christ, Superstar), almost as a torch song.

Like a Love Duet

Dan Cronin (who has a fine operatic voice) and Claudia White do a beautiful counterpoint duet of "Ave Maria" and "Let It Be," which is given a different twist as they hold hands and sing to one another like a Broadway love duet.

The entire company does a fine job with the beautiful "Sabbath Song" from Fiddler on the Roof.

The production numbers and gospel medleys are joyous, energetic entertainment. If some of the comedy occasionally falls flat, no matter — in this fast-moving, well-paced show there's bound to be something to suit your taste coming up.

The performers are talented, the songs are good, and everyone in the audience at the performance I attended seemed to thoroughly enjoy himself.

New Student Policy

Joe Ryan, Westroads manager, announced a new student discount policy effective with this engagement. With your student I.D. you can buy a ticket for the show only (dinner not included) for $3.50 one-half hour before any performance that's not sold out. They won't take reservations on this, but if you call the Westroads box-office before you go out, they'll be glad to let you know if there's a chance of your getting in at a discount for that performance.

In addition to the standby discount, Westroads is also offering a 15 per cent student discount on advance-reservation tickets for dinner-plus-show at any performance. The restrictions here are that there must be a minimum party of two, and one person in each couple must have a student I.D.

With this discount, on weekday evenings and at matinee performances, you'll pay about the same or less than what you'd pay for a comparable meal and a movie.

Aid Hours Down

The Financial Aid Office will be closed to students, faculty, and staff from 8:00 to 9:00 a.m. starting September 17, and continuing through October 19.

Appointments can be made if a student, faculty, or staff member cannot make arrangements to come into the office between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

Tutor Workshop

The Literacy Council of Nebraska has scheduled its first volunteer Tutor Training Workshop for 1973-74. The two-day workshop will be held at Lucas Hall, 923 N. 38th St., on Friday, Sept. 28, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. and on Saturday, Sept. 29, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Since 1970, using the Laubach Literacy Methodology approach ("Each One Teach One") over 200 persons in Nebraska have been assisted to become literate or to learn English as a second language.

Persons interested in becoming tutors or seeking more information about the program may call 571-4312.

Stop Withdrawals

The Educational and Student Services staff members believe that many of the potential student fall withdrawals can be stopped with the help of fellow classmates.

Retention of these dropouts contributes directly to their personal development, the staff believes.

Students who are often absent, who complain of boredom and aimlessness, and who have intruding personal problems are especially vulnerable to dropping out.

Educational and student services asks that you talk with these students in your class and/or refer them to someone in the Counseling Center, phone 554-2409, or the Orientation Office, 554-2677.

LSAT Dates

Pre-law students planning to enter a law school next fall are advised to take the Law School Admission Test in October or December of this year.

Test dates for this school year are Oct. 20, 1973, Dec. 15, 1973, Febr. 9, 1974, April 20, 1974, and July 27, 1974.

Over 180 law schools require or recommend that applicants for admission submit test scores and over 140 such law schools participate in the Law School Data Assembly Service administered by the Educational Testing Service.

Information and registration forms for the examinations and other related services are available to UNO students from Professor A. Stanley Trickett, Admin. 347T, Professor R. Wayne Wilson, Admin. 251, or the Student Testing Center, Admin. 213.

The Shriner clowns will be present to provide the entertainment. Everyone interested is invited to stop by. The picnic will be held near the pavillion at Elmwood Park.

McClurg

Student Panel Seen

Campus Security Director Verne McClurg has proposed that parking appeals be handled by a board composed entirely of students.

The current appeals board is made up of one student, one faculty member and a person from the university's staff.

McClurg has presented his idea both to the UNO administration and student government, but neither has taken any action as of yet.

The bearded director said he'd had experience with such a court in his last job at the University of Iowa and found students to be much harsher with their own peer group than a faculty member would have been. He says he doesn't care if the appeals are handled by the judicial branch of student government or if an entirely new body is formed.

On other matters concerning UNO's parking situation McClurg has been a bit less talkative. He has refused to comment on the rise in parking fines and has issued sturdy "no comments" to related inquiries.

When asked whether he favored a Student Senate resolution that would have faculty and staff pay for their parking, McClurg pondered the question and then answered, "I don't want to comment at this time." Sources close to McClurg had earlier said he favored the move.

sion that no incoming freshmen list had been issued."

When asked if any other tactics had been used to persuade TKE to return to IFC, Greek replied, "The administration wants all the fraternities to belong to IFC."

He added, "If we hadn't made moves to join IFC, we would have been messed with." Greek did not mention who he thought would do the "messaging."

He concluded, "Rejoining IFC is the wise thing to do at this time."

Medical Clinic Now Available To Faculty, Staff and Students

An evening medical clinic for University of Nebraska at Omaha faculty, staff and students, and members of their immediate families, now is available at the University of Nebraska Medical Center, 42nd and Dewey, from 6-9 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, following finalization of plans by UNO and Medical Center personnel.

Appointment Basis

The Clinic service, which complements health services now available at UNO, was developed to provide routine health care for University employees who find it difficult to see a physician during daytime working hours. Because the clinic service is offered on an appointment basis, the possibility of having to wait long periods of time to see a physician is minimized.

The daytime parking problem does not exist during evening hours, and ample parking is available in the area and in a lot at 44th and Dewey. The Clinic may be entered from the Outpatient Entrance, Dewey at 44th.

Persons who desire Clinic appointments should call 541-4233. Fees for routine office calls are $5-$10. Physicals and more comprehensive medical attention are available at additional cost.

Full Services

The full range of diagnostic and therapeutic outpatient services, including emergency treatment, is available at the Medical Center for UNO faculty, staff and students. Persons being seen at the Medical Center for the first time must register in the Admitting Office so that they may be properly identified as UNO personnel, and to receive Medical Center identification cards.

Insurance Applicable

This identification card permits faculty, staff and students to have the same discount available to all University of Nebraska personnel. That is, if a student, faculty or staff member has insurance coverage equal to the Blue Cross-Blue Shield plan available at the medical campus, this person is entitled to a 100 per cent discount after insurance billing for hospital fees.

If the person does not have comparable insurance, a 20 per cent discount after insurance billing is applied. Charges for professional services are rendered at the discretion of the individual physician and are payable in full by patients.

Corrected Billings Out

Some students will be receiving this week corrected billings for fall tuition. Due to a mechanical error, certain class cards were omitted by the computer when the original billings were prepared and mailed to students. Consequently, in these cases the amounts owed for tuition and fees were calculated erroneously on these original billings.

Students receiving corrected billings should completely disregard the original billing. If payment has been made based upon the original billing, it will be helpful to indicate this to the Cashiers Office when transacting business based upon the corrected billing. Students are reminded that the deadline for payment of tuition and fees is Oct. 1.

These same class cards were omitted when class lists were prepared. Corrected class lists will be prepared and distributed to instructors.

Judie Reis, duplicating and bindery supervisor in Duplicating Services, is the UNO Employee of the Month for September.

Ms. Reis, a UNO staffer since 1967, was selected by a board of Runningback Saul Ravenell (38) heads into the Angelo State defense after taking the handoff from quarterback Angelo Intile (16).

Defense Preserves Maverick Tie

by Kevin Carolan

The UNO Mavericks came close to winning their first game of the season Saturday evening but had to settle for a 15-15 tie with Angelo State.

As was the case last week against Jackson State the Maverick defensive unit was once again outstanding.

The offensive unit had its moment in the second quarter when the Mavericks put their 15 points on the board. Otherwise it was much the same as last week. The Mavericks had the ball inside the 20 on two occasions and inside the 30 on one occasion in the first quarter but could not score.

The game was played under a steady drizzle, on a muddy field, with the temperature hovering around the 50 degree mark. A disappointing crowd of 1,593 witnessed the encounter.

Frank Golwitzer had problems kicking in the 27 m.p.h. wind, but did manage to get away a 68-yard punt in the third period which kept the Rams deep in their own territory. Golwitzer also prevented a touchdown by halting a Nate Mathis punt return early in the third quarter.

The Mavericks had a chance for heroics in the third period after Willie Bob Johnson intercepted his second pass of the evening. Johnson intercepted a Gary Olivo pass on the UNO two-yard line and brought it back to the Angelo State 32, only to have it nullified by a clipping penalty.

Saul Ravenell, the Junior from Syracuse, N.Y., was the workhorse for the Mavericks as he carried the ball 31 times for 156 yards, including the longest run of the evening, a 77 yard jaunt that gave the Mavericks their first touchdown of the season.

The first quarter went scoreless as each team tried to adjust to the muddy field conditions. The Mavericks had the deepest penetration only to be stopped by the Ram defense on three occasions.

The first scoring play of the game came on the first play of the second quarter. Senior Bob Bangston replaced Angelo Intile at quarterback and handed off to Ravenell who broke off tackle, reversed his field, and raced 77 yards for the score. Golwitzer's try for the extra point never materialized as a bad snap from center prevented the attempt for the one pointer.

Two plays later, Angelo State's Charlie Franklin ran through the entire Maverick defense on route to a 72 yard touchdown run. Mike Goodglon's kick was good and with only 1:17 gone in the quarter the Rams had a 7-6 lead.

With 11:05 remaining in the second quarter, Ray Brust, the Mavericks senior linebacker, broke through the Rams defense on the 13-yard line and blocked a Joe Byrne punt which floated out of the end zone for a safety, giving the Mavericks an 8-7 lead.

UNO drove 44 yards in 11 plays for its final touchdown, with Ravenell scoring on a 3-yard plunge. Golwitzer's kick was good and the UNO squad led 15-7 at intermission.

Freshmen John Smolsky replaced Bangston at quarterback shortly after the third quarter was underway and after completing his first pass threw an interception on his second attempt. Golwitzer's bad punt later in the quarter gave the Rams good field position. The Rams controlled the ball most of the third quarter as the Mavericks had the ball for only 11 plays.

The fourth quarter was even worse for the Mavericks as, in addition to the wind advantage, Angelo State had breaks from a partially blocked punt, recoveries of fumbles by Smolsky and Intile, a bad center snap that forced a quick punt, and a bad punt off the side of Golwitzer's foot.

The Rams moved 32 yards to score in five plays following the bad snap with halfback Bennie Wilson going over from the six. Quarterback Gary Olivo faked a pass, rolled to his right and dived between three UNO defenders for the two point conversion, tying the score at 15-15.

Angelo State defenders reach up to try and block the kick of Frank Golwitzer during action in Saturday night's game at Rosenblatt Stadium.

Three brave fans sit in the rain at Saturday's game in the student and faculty bleachers east of the field as most people opted for the shelter of the covered grandstand.

Gymnastic Club Meets Today

The UNO Gymnastics Club, one of UNO's three new Club Sports, will hold an organizational meeting Today at 11:30 a.m., in room 100, the Fieldhouse.

Tom Sitzman, UNO gymnastics instructor and head of the club, has announced that the club will take part in six meets, during the coming year, with other university gymnastic clubs.

Weight and Running Program Open

There will be weight training and running programs for all people interested in conditioning and Maverick Basketball. The program will commence Sept. 24 at 3:45 p.m. in room 100 of the UNO fieldhouse. All interested personnel should contact coach Hanson in the athletic office immediately. Eligibility checks and physicals are required prior to entering the program.

Student Government Demolishes Administration

The student government defeated the administration in a challenge softball game, 15-10, Friday in the Pep Bowl. The students brought in a surprise pitcher for the game, Regent James Moylan. The administration team could not or would not muster any kind of a serious threat against the Omaha lawyer. Stars for the game included Student Body President Dave Parker for his hard-hitting against the administration, Chancellor Ronald Roskens for his waving to the crowd, Vice-chancellor Ronald Beer for his administrative score keeping and Student Body Vice-president Kirs Grady for her base running.

Regent James Moylan shows his pitching form against the administration in Friday's softball game in the Pep Bowl.

Runners Tenth at Iowa St.

The UNO cross country team travelled to Ames, Ia. this past weekend to participate in the third annual Iowa State Cross Country Invitational Meet.

It was the Mavericks first trip to the Iowa State Invitational and is consistent in keeping with the upgrading of the athletic program at UNO.

The meet was held under cloudy skies with intermittent rain.

Winner No Surprise

As expected, South Dakota State University took top honors for the second consecutive year. The Jackrabbits Gary Bentley led SDSU with a first place finish with a time of 19 minutes, 50 seconds.

An anticipated duel between Bentley and Marymount's outstanding distance runner Tony Brien never materialized as Bentley led most of the way beating Brien by yards at the finish. SDSU also placed their next four runners in the top 20.

Marymount, a perennial cross country power, placed a disappointing eleventh in the fourteen team field.

Schroer Leading Man

Jack Schroer, UNO's outstanding distance ace was again the Mavericks leading runner, finishing 11th in the 110 man field. Schroer was timed in 20 minutes, 47 seconds over the four mile course.

Freshmen Bill Melton, coming off a fourth place finish last week, was the Mavericks second place finisher this week with a time of 21 minutes, 34 seconds, good for 35th place in the meet.

Other UNO finishers include co-captain Lance Herold, 70th (22.39); Greg Rosenbaum, 74th (22.50); and Joe Muir, 82nd (23.15). Co-captain Tom Mahr also started for the Mavericks but became ill and had to drop out after the first mile.

Garcia Remained Home

Freshman Bob Garcia, who has showed much promise in pre-season practice, remained at home with a foot injury.

Both head coach Lloyd Cardwell and assistant coach Jim McMahon agreed that this meet was probably the most competitive the Mavericks have ever encountered.

Next week the Mavericks hope to take a full squad to Lincoln to participate in the Nebraska Wesleyan Invitational.

Students Unaware of Advantages Says Librarian

by Gary Morris

"The library is a valuable self-directed learning device," according to the head librarian at UNO, Dr. John Christ, "but it's up to the students to take advantage of it."

Christ said many students are just unaware of what a library can do for them.

"It's a shame that people can get all the way to college without being able to effectively use a library," he said. "I feel there is a direct relationship to superior grades and time spent in the library."

The librarian said a major problem is that students don't ask for help.

Students Reluctant

"People wander around and are reluctant to ask for assistance. As a result they walk out disappointed, thinking we haven't got anything," he said. "We want the students to realize that we are here to help."

Christ pointed out that even if the library doesn't have something a student may need it doesn't mean he is at a dead end.

"Eppley is part of a great collection of nationwide cooperative libraries," he said, "because we realize that it's impossible to have every piece of material."

Inter-library Loan Used

"But another library might have something we need or vice-versa and a student can go to the Inter-library Loan Dept. and get what he needs for only a postage charge."

Christ said there are services available to make students more familiar with the library.

"Tours are given upon request," he said, "and we're pretty excited about our reference lecture program."

Under this program instructors are encouraged to request that a librarian come to their classes and demonstrate how students may better use the library's facilities.

"The requests have jumped from 20 in 1971," Christ said, "to 150 last year."

Eppley Library Suffers

The head librarian admitted, however, that the library is suffering from lack of material, space and personnel. The building is definitely not large enough, he said, it was built to accommodate a third of UNO's present enrollment.

"The library is literally full right now," he said, describing the present space situation as "bad news."

"Omaha is experiencing a major urban thrust and it's necessary for us to grow, too," he said. "We need more material but also a place to put it."

No Immediate Breakthrough

Christ said there will be no breakthrough right away, but that a solution to the space problem is in sight.

"Money has been allocated for a new library building," he said, "and it should be a much more functional facility allowing for a moderate amount of growth for long term needs."

Construction is Delayed

Construction of the new classroom-office building to be built east of the library is being delayed due to a postponement in the letting of bids.

Dr. Rex Engebretson, vice-chancellor of campus planning, said the bid date is now scheduled for tomorrow.

Conflicting bids

A series of problems moved the bid date back to September from the original date in June. The latest set-back, Engebretson said, was due to conflicts in the letting of other major construction bids in the area. Creighton and UNL both were letting bids on major contracts the first of this month, the vice-chancellor said, and most of the area contractors wanted to bid on all three projects.

October Start

Engebretson said this latest delay means construction on the $3.7 million building will not begin until October.

The new building will house the College of Business Administration and the Departments of English and Political Science.

The project is expected to be completed sometime in 1975.

AF Bases Enter Studies Program

Four new U.S. Air Force Bases will be included this fall in the UNO European Studies Program. This brings to seven, the number of Air Force Bases overseas participating in the program, now in its second year.

For the first time this fall, UNO faculty members will teach at Lakenheath, Mildenhall and Bentwaters Air Force Bases in England, and Ramstein Air Force Base in Germany.

The European Studies Program will continue its urban/ethnic program in Torreon, Spain, and Wiesbaden and Rhein-am-Main, Germany.

Faculty scheduled to teach the first two terms are Dr. Norman Hamm, Psychology; Philip Vogt, Sociology; Karen Bettis, English; and Dr. Henry Dizeny of the University of Oregon Psychology Department.

Servicemen may take up to eight credit hours per term to apply towards a certificate in urban/ethnic studies, a bachelor of science in urban studies, a bachelor of general studies, a bachelor of arts in Black Studies, or a master of science in urban studies.
